Omniche Holidays' Booking Terms & Conditions:

The summaries of these booking terms & conditions apply to all Omniche Holidays bookings. Full booking terms & conditions can be downloaded from www.omnicheholidays.com. Everyone named in the booking will be deemed to have accepted these conditions.

Suppliers: Omniche Holidays does not itself provide transport, accommodation, tours and/or events. In making your travel bookings, we act only as an agent for other service providers, whose terms and conditions may limit or exclude their liability to you.

Brochure: Validity from 01 November 2019 to 31 December 2020 and should be used as a guide only.

How to Book: Call or visit a licensed travel agent who will assist you in making a reservation. Your licensed travel consultant will request a reservation on your behalf and will be responsible for communicating your requirements to us, managing your booking and forwarding your payment to us. Anything not specifically included in the quoted holiday package is at your own expense.

Booking Fee: Your travel agent may apply a booking fee in addition to the price Omniche Holidays quotes them for your holiday. Additionally, Omniche Holidays may charge a booking fee.

Prices: The prices in this brochure are correct as at 01 November 2019 and are subject to change. All prices are an indication and are based on the cheapest tour option. All prices have been calculated based on per person for travel during low season. Low season travel may vary between destinations and service providers, please call us for more details. Omniche Holidays is not responsible for currency fluctuations and should these change, we reserve the right to apply a surcharge if applicable.

Payments: A deposit of $200 per person plus any applicable airfare is required within 3 days of written confirmation. Balance is required 90 days prior to departure date for Tahiti and 60 days prior for all other destinations, or earlier if specified in individual package conditions. Omniche Holidays may cancel the bookings and retain your deposit if payment hasn't been received by the due date.

Cancellations: Cancellations after deposit payment will not be refunded. Cancellations after final payment may incur cancellation fees charged by suppliers amounting to all or part of the cost paid. No refund is available for cancellations after the holiday has commenced or in respect of services not utilised.

Alterations by you: If you alter your package after confirmation, Omniche Holidays may charge a fee of $50 per person, in addition to any charges levied by suppliers.

Product Descriptions: Omniche Holidays makes no specific representation as to the standard, class or description of accommodation or services provided.

All descriptions featured are provided by suppliers, and facilities may change at any time.

Star Rating: While all care is taken promoting each property's rating, ratings should be used as a guide only and may change throughout the year as properties' circumstances change. The star ratings in this brochure are represented by palm trees as they do not meet the AAA Tourism Star Rating Scheme. All properties represented are self-rated, decided on by individual properties and is not in the opinion of Omniche Holidays.

Images: All images are used as a guide only and may be of varying room types. While all care has been taken to acknowledge Photographer's image credits, it is beyond our control should we have missed any acknowledgements.

Travel Insurance: Travel insurance is strongly recommended by the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade for all overseas travel. Please consider purchasing a travel insurance policy of your choice when booking.

Health and Immigration: Each passenger is responsible for their own visa, passport (with at least 6 months validity), immigration, quarantine, customs, health and other requirements of the countries visited.

Limit of liability: Omniche Holidays provides its own services with due care and skill, but excludes all liability for any events beyond our control. We do not accept liability whatsoever for loss or damage including but not limited to physical and psychological injury, and loss or damage to property that may arise with the supply of goods or services provided by suppliers.

Destinations: Omniche Holidays makes no representation as to the safety and conditions that may exist at any destination. You should obtain travel advice from the Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (www.smarttraveller.gov.au).

Unhappy?: If you are dissatisfied with an aspect of your holiday it is vital that you advise the supplier's manager of your dissatisfaction and they will try to solve the problem locally. If unable to get satisfaction from management you should immediately notify Omniche Holidays, preferably in writing, stating your reasons, and we will act immediately to assist you. Omniche Holidays cannot action appropriately if a complaint is lodged upon your return, which has not been previously drawn to the attention of the supplier.

Privacy: The client consents to providing us with necessary personal information for the purpose of making and completing travel related arrangements on their behalf. Omniche Holidays will only discuss booking information with the clients or their travel agent.

Law of contract: The laws of Australia govern these booking conditions and subject to any law which is expressly not consistent with this, any action arising in any way related with the holiday may be brought only in an Australian court.

'Bula Vinaka' – A warm hello

The warm and gracious nature of the Fijian people has earned this Pacific nation a reputation for being one of the world's friendliest. With a blend of Melanesian, Polynesian, Micronesian, Indian, Chinese and European cultures, Fiji abounds in diversity - though it hums with a unified community spirit. Encompassing more than 333 islands and 500 islets, the ample charms within Fiji's arms satisfy the needs of every traveller, from the adventurous to the languorous.

Traditionally, Fijian natives were renowned as builders of the finest vessels, and manufacturers of valuable bark cloth and clubs. Today, Fiji has one of the most developed economies in the Pacific due to an abundance of forest, mineral and fish resources, and a thriving tourist industry. Located midway between Vanuatu and Tonga, and only 3-4 hours flying time from Australia, Fiji offers a haven of warm weather year round (22°C-31°C). Rainfall is more common in the warmer season (November till April) and winds are moderate. Only one third of Fiji's islands are inhabited, with the two biggest islands of Viti Levu and Vanua Levu being the most populated. The main island of Viti Levu is home to Nadi International Airport and the nation's capital of Suva.

It is no surprise in Fiji to spot little nuances that serve as a reminder of its past era as a British colony. Not only is English an official language of Fiji, but the sport of rugby is considered a national treasure. Other English influences include religion, and the large-scale production of sugar cane that brought more than 60,000 indentured labourers from India to work in Fiji. Whilst modern Fiji now boasts a rich mosaic of ethnic cultures, indigenous Polynesian and Melanesian traditions of Fiji remain an integral part of everyday life. Visitors to Fiji often experience Lovo ceremonies of earth-oven feasts, Meke performances of traditional music and dance, and the symbolic drinking of Kava (an infusion prepared from a type of pepper plant).

For those planning a holiday, Fiji offers an impressive selection of accommodation and activities. From hostels to exclusive 5 star resorts, to white sand beaches and volcanic mountains: the Fiji experience can be catered to suit each traveller's needs. With warm azure waters teeming with sea life and corals, diving and snorkelling are immensely popular, as are treks through Fiji's lush rainforests and dramatic highlands. Most visitors opt to explore Fiji's less populated islands, where they can experience a taste of the old South Pacific, yet still enjoy the comforts of a seasoned tourist industry. There is even a spot on Tavenui Island where one can literally stand on the International Date Line – with one foot in the present and the other in the past.
