THE COOK ISLANDS

'Kia Orana!'

— is the greeting of the Cook Islands meaning 'may you live long'

Discover the 15 best kept secrets of the South Pacific, the Cook Islands. You'll find the Cook Islands halfway between Sydney and Hawaii, scattered across a vast swathe of the Pacific, like floating frangipani petals. Boasting rare beauty, an idyllic climate, warm welcoming people and a pace of life unsurpassed for romance and endless adventures: the Cook Islands are an unspoilt holiday paradise where there is a surprising amount to see and do.

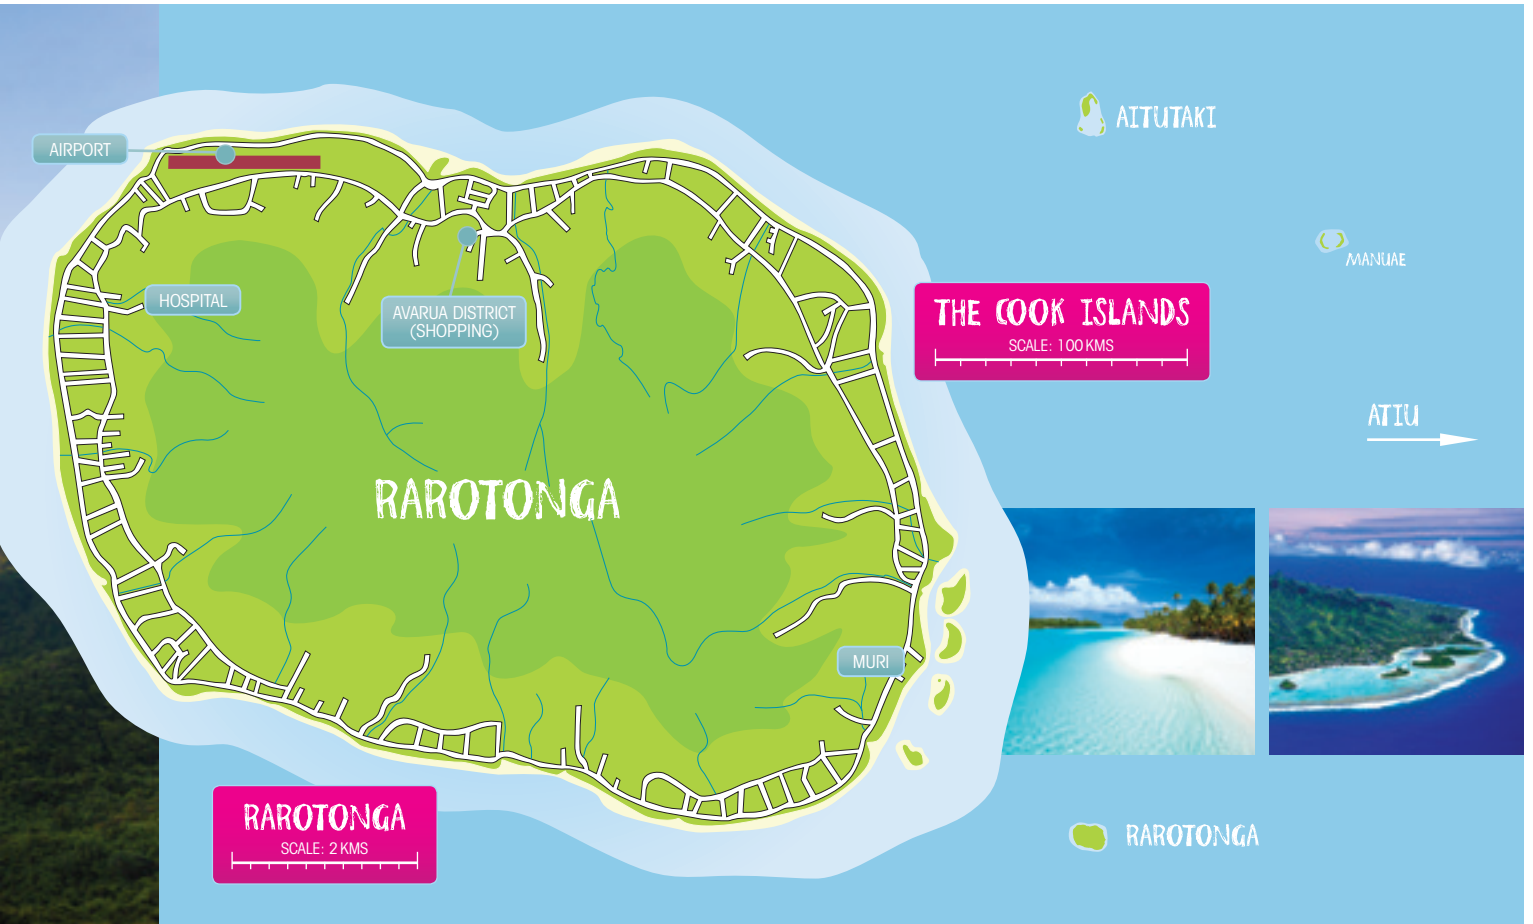

The Cook Islands deliver an authentic, yet refined South Pacific island experience. Modern Polynesian culture is still very strong, which means visitors encounter a lifestyle that exudes warmth, happiness and respect - where you are treated like a friend coming home rather than a tourist. With its picture postcard turquoise blue lagoons, powdery white beaches and verdant hinterlands, the Cook Islands offers its visitors something special. Effortlessly charming and a little bit quirky ($3 note anyone?), visitors immerse themselves in unforgettable and endless adventures: exploring the abundant natural beauty, cultural experiences and culinary delights.

Of the 15 islands, Rarotonga is the most populated and the capital of the Cook Islands. You'll find the international airport and the main town of Avarua on Rarotonga. The youngest island in the group, it is dominated by a once mighty volcanic pyramid, with a skyline punctuated by sawtooth peaks and razorback ridges carpeted in lush green vegetation that fall into a reef-encircled turquoise lagoon.

The coral atoll of Aitutaki is even more achingly beautiful, boasting arguably the most idyllic lagoon in the world. Aitutaki simply exudes romance and is a magnet for wedding parties, honeymooners and those renewing their love. Snorkel, dive, kayak or swim in the exquisitely coloured lagoon and its many dazzling white sand motus (islets).

More intrepid travellers shouldn't miss combining Rarotonga and Aitutaki with a visit to Atiu, a quite different look and feel to both Rarotonga and Aitutaki. Its volcanic mass has risen up out of the sea to be surrounded by a raised coral limestone reef called a makatea. Explore lush green forests dotted with caves and underground swimming caverns or secluded sandy beaches pounded by white crested surf.

Steeped in legends and mystique and estimated at 18 million years old, Mangaia is said to be the oldest island in the Pacific. It's the most southerly of the Cooks and the second largest, and as far from the madding crowd as any island could possibly be. With a volcanic plateau framed by a ring of high fossilised coral cliffs, Mangaia's remarkable natural beauty and serenity are only part of its fascination.
